Middlebury In The News

Robert D. Hope

Robert D. Hope, '11, Assistant Treasurer, retired on June 30th, after 40 years service with Middlebury College.

Concurrent with the announcement of Mr. Hope's retirement, President Stratton said that the day-to-day operations and responsibilities of both the treasurer's office and the business office on the campus would be amalgamated under the direction of Carroll Rikert, Jr., Business Manager of the college.

Fred P. Lang, '17, is Treasurer of Middlebury and a member of the College's Board of Trustees, and has the over-all responsibility for the financial affairs of the college.

Simultaneously with the news of Mr. Hope's retirement was the announcement by Business Manager Rikert of the promotion of three members of the staff. They are J. Wilber Smith, Hilton P. Bicknell, '27, and E. Leroy Knight.

Mr. Smith has been promoted from accountant to controller of accounts. In this capacity he will be responsible for all accounting.

Mr. Bicknell will relinquish his responsibilities as Bookstore Manager, Purchasing Agent, and Assistant Business Manager and will become the Bursar. As Bursar, he will be responsible for the receipt and disbursement of all College funds passing through the business office.

Mr. Knight, who has been assistant to the business manager, has been named bookstore manager and purchasing agent.

All promotions became effective July 1.

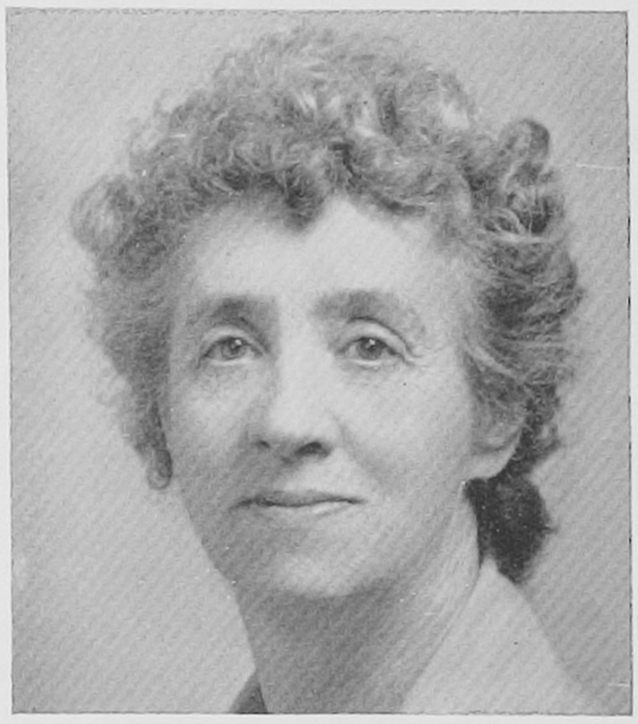
Both Dr. Stratton and Treasurer Lang paid tribute to Mr. Hope's "long and faithful service to Middlebury College."

"Mr. Hope has each day of his long and completely active career served the best interests of Middlebury and by his actions has contributed to the successful operation of the college since he first became assistant treasurer in 1914," President Stratton said. "We are indeed fortunate that he is willing, following his retirement, to continue to be available for consultation with college officials on matters which he is, by virtue of his long association with Middlebury, uniquely qualified."

The members of the Alumni Council at the June 13th meeting voted to send a letter of appreciation from the Council to Mr. Hope for his many years of service to Middlebury College.

The Cover

EDITOR'S NOTE:—We are repeating in this issue our last year's presentation of the graduating class by publishing the pictures of the members of the Class of 1954 on the front and back covers. Several favorable comments were received last summer following the appearance of the July NEWS LETTER and a number of Alumni-ae suggested that we repeat our presentation of the new Alumni-ae on the NEWS LETTER covers. The suggestions are appreciated. Names of the 1954 recipients of Bachelor of Arts degrees are printed on Pages 39 and 40.



Mary S. Rosevear

Miss Mary S. Rosevear, a member of the College faculty for the past thirty years, retired from her position as Associate Professor of Physical Education for Women on July 1.

Tributes by President Stratton and the Alumnae Association of Middlebury College were paid Miss Rosevear for her "long and faithful service to the College." (See Page 4, Alumnae)

Miss Rosevear was graduated from Syracuse University in 1920 and four years later joined the faculty of Middlebury. In 1937 she was made Assistant Professor of Physical Education for Women and two years later became Associate Professor.

Miss Rosevear has been active in community and College affairs and has served on several committees and has held office in many organizations. She has served as Treasurer of the American Association of University Women and is a member of the League of Women Voters. She intends to continue to make her home in Middlebury and hopes to be able to devote some of her time to travelling.

Parents

Parents of Middlebury students are considered important members of the College family. This issue of the NEWS LETTER is being sent to parents of undergraduates, and members of the freshman class. It is hoped that the NEWS LETTER will be informative and interesting to parents. Comments will be appreciated.

Annual Alumni Awards, New Officers Announced At Reunion Barbecue

THE traditional Reunion Barbecue was the 1954 Alumni highlight of Commencement Week End as more than 1400 Alumni-ae, friends, and parents of members of the graduating class gathered in the World War II Memorial Field House for the event on Saturday, June 12.

Following a tasty dinner of baked ham, announcements of elections of Alumni-ae officers and winners of awards were made. Alumni officers elected were: Richard C. Hubbard, '36, National President; Loring P. Lane, '39, Springfield (Mass.) District President; Linwood L. Meacham, '50, Boston (Mass.) District President; and Phelps N. Swett, '34, President, Middlebury District. Two new Alumnae officers were elected. They are: Mrs. Evelyn Plumley Adams, '25, Alumnae Trustee, and Mrs. Ruth McNulty King, '31, Delegate-at-Large. Miss Dorothea E. Higgins, '30, was re-elected for a second two-year term as National President of the Alumnae.

Elbert S. Brigham, '03, and Dr. Hermon E. Hasseltine, '02, received the annual Alumni awards of pewter plaques in recognition of their service to Middlebury.

Mr. Brigham was cited for his long and devoted service to Middlebury as a member of the College's Board of Trustees since 1922. The plaque was presented to him by Duane L. Robinson, '03, Professor Emeritus of Languages. In making the presentation, Professor Robinson departed from the usual in that he gave the following citation in Latin:

Development, Alumni Fund, Reports, Highlight Alumni Council Meeting

THE annual meeting of the Alumni Council was held on Sunday morning, June 13th, during Commencement Week End.

The Council unanimously approved the proposed revisions (see April 1954 NEWS LETTER) of the Constitution of the Associated Alumni.

Walter E. Brooker, '37, National Chairman of the Alumni Fund gave a report of the Fund and plans for next year's Fund Drive (see Mr. Brooker's letter on Page 7).

President Stratton speaking on the College's Development Program said:

"Ten years ago, at the beginning of World War II, there was deep pessimism as to the survival of the liberal arts colleges. Engineering and technical colleges seemed more important. Against this background, the idea of a liberal education is surviving because leaders in education made efforts during and after the war to restate and reemphasize the values of a liberal education.

"Much work has been done since the war to interest corporations and business executives to support independent liberal arts institutions. A general over-all council for financing of liberal arts colleges has been formed, headed by important people in the United States. Throughout the country there have been groups of liberal arts colleges formed, such as the New England Colleges Fund, Inc. which includes twenty-two colleges, including Middlebury. Solicitation is not from individuals and not from foundations, but only from corporations and industries. The New England Colleges Fund has only been going a year or two, but in the first year it took in and distributed to New England colleges somewhat more money than expended in trying to raise the money.

"For our part, we must stand up for the independent small colleges of our type. We must sell it to everyone here, there and everywhere.

"Now, what is our own problem? There have been discussions about this at Trustees meetings for several years. The loss of the Playhouse was a serious blow. We have had a committee of Trustees and Faculty study library problems. The library wings built in 1928 when the student body was 800 are not adequate for 1954 when the enrollment is 1200.

"Faculty salaries are not what they should be. We are in line with other colleges having the same resources, but we know that in certain fields in our education program we are understaffed. We could do a better job if we have a larger faculty in some departments.

"To sum up therefore, the needs of our college: better Library facilities, a new Playhouse, new dormitory for women to replace the outmoded wooden buildings, endowment for salaries for faculty and staff, and adequate scholarship aid.

"Our Development Program is in two parts, intangibles and tangibles, bricks and mortar. [Continued on page 40]

(Translation: Patriot, loyal citizen, having served both state and nation throughout a busy life, for many years a devoted trustee of your college, to which you have unobtrusively given of your time and money; many a student has been able to receive a college education because of your generosity. The Alumni of Middlebury College deem it an honor to present to you this testimonial of your loyal service.)

A native of St. Albans, Vermont, Mr. Brigham served the State of Vermont as agriculture commissioner from 1913–1924. He was the State's Congressman twice, 1924 and 1926. He is also long-time President of the Franklin County Farm Bureau.

Dr. Hasseltine has had a long career in public health service and in the Army medical service. He has served at public health stations in this country, Hawaii and in Alaskan waters aboard the U. S. Revenue cutter "Rush." An author of numerous articles in scientific and medical journals, he is a recognized authority on leprosy and undulant fever.

Edgar (Cap) Wiley, '13, Director of Alumni Relations-Emeritus, in making the presentation of the alumni award to Dr. Hasseltine, paid tribute to his many years service to the College in fund drives. Dr. Hasseltine in turn said that "He was only a collector" and attributed the success of his class to the fine cooperation of members. His class of 1902 tied with the men of 1882–1890 in winning the LaFlamme Cup for the highest percentage of participation in the Alumni Fund Drive. The cup is given in the name of Armand N. LaFlamme, '37, who was killed in World War II. The award is made to the class with the highest percentage of participation in the Alumni Fund.

Following is the list of classes winning top honors in the 1954 Alumni Fund. They are: tied for first place honors, men of 1902 and men of 1882–1890 with 100 per cent; second place, men of 1904, 87.5 per cent; third, women of 1903, 80 per cent; fourth, women of 1909, 78.9 per cent; and fifth place, men of 1909 with a 75.8 percentage of participation.

Walter E. Brooker, '37, Fund chairman, made a report on the 1953–1954 Alumni Fund. The goal of $25,000 was passed by $1,266.65.

The McCullough Reunion Cup went to the class of 1909. The award, which is made to the class which has the highest percentage of its living members present, was made by Egbert C. Hadley, '10, Chairman of the Board of Trustees, and was accepted by Ivan Hagar, '09.

Saturday evening reunions were held by various classes.

Middlebury Alumnae Honor Mrs. William S. Burrage

Mrs. William S. Burrage was voted an honorary member of the Alumnae Association of Middlebury College at the Commencement meeting of the Association. Mrs. Burrage is well known and beloved by many generations of Alumnae. She is the wife of former Professor Burrage who died in 1939 after serving the College as an outstanding faculty member for thirty-six years.

A motion was passed at this meeting expressing the Association's "deep appreciation for the service of Miss Evelyn Ryle, '23, on the College's Board of Trustees." The motion also stated "she faithfully attended all meetings of the Board and we are proud of her as first Alumnae Trustee."

Another motion passed expressed to Miss Mary S. Rosevear "the appreciation of the Alumnae for her long service to Middlebury and best wishes for future prosperity." (Note Page 3, retirement of Miss Rosevear).

An announcement was made of the election of three new Alumnae officers (See page 2), and the raising of $500 by the Boston Alumnae Club for scholarship. The Boston Club was complimented by the Association for its fund raising effort.

Professor Munford, '34 Wins Fulbright Award

Dr. Howard M. Munford, '34, of the Middlebury College faculty has been granted a Fulbright Award for a year's work in Finland.

Dr. Munford, who is Associate Professor in American Literature, will lecture and teach graduate courses in American Literature at Abo Academy and Turku University in Abo-Turku, Finland. Dr. Munford, his wife, and their two children will leave for Finland around the latter part of August.

In 1952, he was on leave from Middlebury studying in California under a grant from the Fund for the Advancement of Education of the Ford Foundation.

A graduate of Middlebury College in 1934, he received his M.A. from the Bread Loaf School of English in 1939. In 1941 he was named an instructor at Middlebury and was appointed an assistant professor in 1946. He became an associate professor the following year. Three years ago he was granted a Doctor of Philosophy Degree by Harvard University.

During World War II, he served with the U.S. Navy as an ensign in the Pacific in combat intelligence.

Fellowship Granted To Professor Prentice

James S. Prentice, Hepburn Professor of Economics at Middlebury, is one of fifty American economists who has been granted a fellowship for summer study at Case Technological Institute in Cleveland, Ohio.

The fellowships are made possible by a grant to Case by the Republic Steel Corporation. The selection was based upon the possible contribution of the fellow as well as his institution's ability to benefit from the program.

The group, which will include economists from the East and parts of the Midwest, will spend six weeks in Cleveland where it will study every phase of a single industry, from raw material to consumer. They will also examine the role of the wholesaler, the banker and the manufacturer. Several company training programs will also be reviewed.

Allen D. Bliss, '23, was the College's representative at the inauguration of Dr. S. Justus McKinley as President of Emerson College, Boston, Mass.

To all Middlebury men and women:

Congratulations and thanks for a job well done!

The results of the 1953–54 Alumni Fund, reported in this NEWS LETTER, record your accomplishments in support of a stronger Middlebury. It was your support, your efforts and your gifts this year that made possible record achievement in our program of annual alumni giving to the college. Everyone who has been a part of this program should be proud and pleased with the results achieved.

As we have now completed our fifth year of annual giving it is gratifying to note the steady growth of the program. Since its inception in 1949–50 our Alumni Fund has realized a 25% growth in the number of contributors and an ever increasing amount of dollars raised for Middlebury.

But, reassuring as this record of growth is, important challenges lie ahead. Colleges in our competitive class such as Amherst, Bates, Swarthmore and Williams still beat us in terms of percentage of alumni participation in their alumni annual giving programs. We must not allow them to establish a better reputation for alumni loyalty and support than we can show for Middlebury.

It is particularly important that we strengthen our percentage of alumni giving as Middlebury embarks on its $3,000,000 Development Program. This program must be successful if Middlebury is to have the means of increasing faculty salaries, improving its science facilities, enlarging Starr Library and building the much needed Dramatics and Speech Center. The Development Program cannot succeed unless Middlebury Alumni stand up to be counted in support of their college.

Raising $3,000,000 means seeking substantial gifts from outside sources such as foundations, corporations and estates. These sources are constantly faced with requests from private colleges seeking gifts to help them meet pressing needs. A major test of each request is always the question:—"What are your Alumni doing?"

The answer to this question lies with us. If we can show over 50% alumni participation in our Alumni Fund we can give a satisfactory answer to this key question—and we can meet next year's goal of $50,000. If we fail to rally in support of our College we cannot expect outside sources to support us. We won't fail because Middlebury men and women will not let the College down.

Let's go, Middlebury!

Development Program Includes Improvements In Skiing, Ice Skating Facilities

Plans are moving forward for the expansion of ski facilities for Middlebury students at the College's nationally-known Snow Bowl. Plans were announced recently by President Samuel S. Stratton.

The possibilities of constructing a new modern ski lift, which has been under consideration for some time, are being studied by College officials. Crews have been surveying the proposed lift line which would run from near the present tow house to the top of Worth Mountain. The open rope tow which was installed several years ago is now inadequate and it has been the desire of College officials to replace it with one of more modern design.

The cost of the ski lift will be defrayed from funds restricted for the improvement of the area under the terms of Joseph Battell's will.

A decided impetus was given to the movement for a College ski lift by Dr. Stewart Ross, '20, long time benefactor of skiing facilities at Middlebury College. Dr. Ross contributed $2000.00 towards the cost of the ski lift.

Middlebury for the past 15 years has been a leader in the field of good skiing facilities for its students. The installation of a modern lift along with the 50-meter jump, would give the College the best ski area in the nation.

Since early June, crews have been at work through the heavy wooded growth of the mountain side preparing for new trails. Officials state that plans call for the men's ski team and the Mountain Club to help with trail-clearing this fall so that the new trail might be available this winter.

The expansion of the ski area at the College Snow Bowl is in line with the decision of college trustees this spring to install an artificial ice plant in the Memorial Field House. Both of these programs will serve to provide Middlebury students with extensive winter recreational facilities in the form of skiing and skating.

Middlebury students have long been known for their enthusiasm for winter sports. The enlargement of the ski facilities will enable more students to take advantage of the area during the winter months. Not only does the majority of the student body at the College enjoy skiing in the winter, but each year Middle- [Continued on page 40]

Middlebury College will have an artificial ice rink next winter but its installation and maintenance depends on a strict program of economy, President Samuel S. Stratton said in making the announcement in the late spring.

The principal purpose of the artificial ice rink will be to provide a full program of recreational and intramural skating for the 1200 men and women comprising the College's student body.

During the present summer months, the rink is being constructed in the Field House end of the World War II Memorial Field House and Gymnasium. Since the construction of the Memorial Field House in 1949, the formation of ice has depended on strictly freezing weather conditions with the result that Middlebury has been unable to provide its students with a recreational skating program in accordance with the desires of college authorities.

Artificial ice will make it possible for students to participate in a skating program for approximately four months of the nine months of the academic year.

President Stratton said that the Trustees of the College voted at a recent meeting to utilize an anonymous gift of $50,000 and other moneys given to Middlebury for the purpose of constructing an artificial ice rink.

The trustees in reaching the decision to proceed with the plans for artificial ice did so after voting approval to the following economic approach to the construction and operation of the rink:

(1) The Field House rink area will not be heated and in order to have artificial ice at this time, extensive planing equipment, etc. will have to be eliminated and assurance placed in the cooperation of students in keeping the ice scraped.

(2) Artificial ice at Middlebury will make it possible for the public to participate in general skating at a time to be announced later.

(3) A greater demand for recreational and hockey game tickets is expected to make necessary certain revisions in the present admission ticket setup.

(4) The administration of Middlebury's new artificial ice hockey rink will be under the direction of the Business Manager of the College.

When the ice rink is completed, it will be the only artificial ice rink in the State of Vermont.

REPORTING THE STUDENT SIDE OF MIDDLEBURY NEWS

Seven members of the Class of 1954 have been granted graduate scholarships and fellowships to further their studies.

Roger H. Walmsley has won a fellowship to study Physics at Lehigh University in Bethlehem, Pa. The award was made by the Danforth Foundation of St. Louis, Mo., which gives scholarships for graduate study for students interested in teaching college as a religious vocation. Lehigh has also granted Mr. Walmsley an assistantship in physics.

The Harvard University Graduate School of Education has granted scholarships to Elnor J. Folsom, Jean-Marie McKenna, and Parmelia S. Willard. These scholarships were awarded under the 29-college cooperative plan whereby the students will receive a masters in education degree after one year of study.

Patricia A. Lothrop has received a grant for study at Cornell Graduate School of Education while Jeannette G. Poulos, has received a similar grant from the Yale School of Education.

Leah A. Wallat has also received an award from Yale. However, she is being considered for a post as an English teacher in a French high school. If that post is made available, the scholarship will be held over for a year.

Edward B. Perrin, '53, has been awarded a George Ellis Fellowship.

Mr. Perrin, who was a mathematics major at Middlebury, is currently studying mathematical statistics at the University of Edinburgh, Scotland, on a Fulbright Grant.

The George Ellis Fellowships were established at Columbia University in 1931 under a provision in the will of George W. Ellis. The fellowships are open primarily to residents of Vermont, or to graduates of Middlebury, Norwich, and the University of Vermont. They are awarded to qualified men or women for pursuing advanced or graduate study in any of the schools or faculties at Columbia.

George W. Sullivan, '43, represented Middlebury at the Convocation commemorating the 75th Anniversary of the Rhode Island School of Design.

Middlebury's 1954 Commencement

LET US BE TRUE TO ONE ANOTHER was the title of Commencement address (see Page 18) delivered by Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, United States Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare. The Commencement exercises held on Monday, June 14, marked the completion of Middlebury's 154th academic year.

Six honorary degrees were awarded. Honored by Middlebury were: Mrs. Hobby, Doctor of Laws; Norman Rockwell, noted illustrator and artist, Doctor of Humanities; George A. Ellis, New York attorney and industrialist, Doctor of Laws; Dr. Priscilla White of Boston, physician, researcher and authority of diabetics, Doctor of Science; Rev. Edward S. Hickcox, '26, noted clergyman and Baccalaureate speaker, Doctor of Divinity; and John A. Arnold, '13, insurance executive and former Trustee of Middlebury, Master of Arts.

Bachelor of Arts degrees were awarded to 227 men and women and seven others received advanced degrees.

In his remarks to the graduating class at the Baccalaureate service on Sunday, June 13, the Reverend Edward S. Hickcox advised his listeners to "Fashion four anchors which may be let down upon the ocean bed of reality: Respect for Revelation, Search for Knowledge, Participation in Public Affairs, and Creative Venture.

Respect for Revelation ". . . . . God, as of ancient day, even so now reveals Himself. The one with the disciplined mind, the receptive heart, the clear eye still may behold His glory—perhaps in the brilliant beauty of the stars, or the fresh dew upon the rose. God, as of ancient day, still speaks through prophet and saint; and most of all through Jesus Christ who incarnates God's love and grace as none other . . . . Yes, let us have respect for revelation, and show honest reverence before the impact of the Eternal upon the finite."

Search for Knowledge ". . . . . To live constructively in a confused world, seek for basic knowledge, and take unto yourself the universal wisdom garnered through the centuries by different races and cultures, for truth which makes for freedom has about it a global aspect. No national, no political party and no religious sect have a corner upon it. . . . . Seek knowledge, universal in dimension, knowing no racial boundaries—knowledge which lifts mankind above mean prejudices, and fills the mind with elevated thought, and gives the soul an opportunity for free development through self-discipline. This search for knowledge will help to bring to pass what Dorothy Canfield Fisher calls 'the mighty hope,' namely, the ability of human being to unite in order to help each other live.

Participation in Public Affairs ". . . . . I urge you to be performers rather than passive spectators in the corporate life of the community in which you reside. A town or city begins to deteriorate when her moral and educated citizens decide that they are too busy with their own affairs to have concern for the political, economic, cultural and religious welfare of the place in which they live. When this is the attitude of the educated and moral population then beware. . . . . Participation in public affairs by you can be an aid in keeping the ship of state from wreck upon the rocks. Participation in public affairs can get the mind focussed beyond self to larger issues."

Creative Venture ". . . . . Listen to the words of Daniel Hudson Burrham, 'Make no little plans. They have no magic to stir men's blood; and probably themselves will not be realized. Make big plans; aim high in hope and work remembering that a noble design once recorded will never die, but long after we are gone will be a living thing asserting itself with ever growing insistence'.

President Samuel S. Stratton conferred the honorary degrees, citing the recipients, in part, as follows:

Oveta Culp Hobby—"In time of war you served your country gallantly and with high distinction . . . It is now extremely appropriate that you are our No. 1 citizen in the never-ending task of providing for the health, education and welfare of the people of the United States."

Dr. Priscilla White—"Gifted scientist, patient and brilliant research worker in the field of medicine, you have without stint and without thought of material rewards devoted your life to making the lives of others happier and healthier."

John Alanson Arnold—"The sound judgement, the wisdom, the integrity which, with charming modesty, you brought to the governing board of our college during your term in office, will ever be appreciated by your fellow-trustees and by your President."

Edward Scoville Hickcox—"Your own unselfish devotion to the ministry and the love and esteem you have won in your pastorates merit the recognition which we, with pleasure, give to you today."

Norman Rockwell—"Since youth a successful student of art under eminent teachers; skilled portrayer of humanity, you have awakened in many a keen appreciation of and gratitude for your special gift."

George Adams Ellis—"Vermonter by birth, you have remained a loyal and generous public spirited citizen of your native state. Today we give recognition to your distinguished career as a member of the New York Bar and an industrial leader, but we also honor you for your zealous interests in education and public affairs."

HONORED BY MIDDLEBURY—Six distinguished persons had honorary degrees conferred upon them by President Stratton during Middlebury's Commencement program June 14. Construction Starts on New Women's Dormitory

An important step in Middlebury College's long range Development Program was taken during Commencement Week End when construction was started on the third and final wing of Battell Hall, women's dormitory. (Picture above shows how the new Center Battell will appear when erected between Battell North and South.)

The new three-story structure will have accommodations for 100 girls and will connect the two existing wings, Battell North and Battell South, which were opened in the fall of 1950. The $270,000 building will have two single rooms and the rest will be doubles. Recreation rooms will be provided for in the basement of the new dormitory.

The building of the new hall will serve to house all the women on the women's campus. Since the end of World War II, many of the women have been housed in other buildings off campus which have been inadequate. (See President Stratton's remarks on Page 5.) [Continued on page 40]

Dean Elizabeth B. Kelly removes the first shovel of dirt in the ground breaking ceremonies for the new women's dormitory. Looking on are, left to right, President Samuel S. Stratton, Leon S. Gay, Mrs. Gertrude C. Milliken, Edwin S. S. Sunderland, Egbert C. Hadley, Raymond S. Noonan (contractor), and Miss Evelyn Ryle. Mr. Gay, Mrs. Milliken, Mr. Sunderland, Mr. Hadley and Miss Ryle represented the Board of Trustees.

ISN'T MIDDLEBURY RICH NOW?

Yes—and No!

Middlebury has a fine endowment. But it is now being used to capacity for academic purposes. There are no longer surpluses for buildings, or better salaries, or more scholarships. So we have the choice of standing still (really losing ground, because others will progress); or maintaining our traditional role of academic leadership.

WHAT WILL THE MONEY DO?

Middlebury College has an important need for a building to be utilized as a Center for dramatics, speech, debating, Little Theatre, and audio work in the languages. A fire in December of 1953 added emphasis to this need with the destruction of the Middlebury College Playhouse.

Increased endowment is needed to capitalize scholarships being granted from other funds and to enlarge the scope of the scholarship program. Endowment is also needed for faculty salaries and to make provisions for improving the ratio of faculty to students.

During the past fifteen years, the present library space has become inadequate. In order to have needed and proper library space for students and faculty, wings must be built to Egbert Starr Library.

Some students at Middlebury during the past few years have been housed in wooden, reconverted dwellings which are inefficient and inadequate. The College has an important need for a new women's dormitory.

High upon the list of Middlebury needs is the providing of improved facilities for the Physical Sciences.

The first step in the Middlebury College Development Program was taken on June 15, 1954 when construction was started on the building of the new women's dormitory which will be ready for occupancy with the start of the second term on January 31, 1955.

Middlebury believes that all youth need to develop and maintain physical fitness and mental health. To this end Middlebury strives to provide excellent recreational facilities for its students. Two goals of the Development Program are, an artificial ice rink in the College's World War II Memorial Field House and Gymnasium, and a ski lift in Middlebury's nationally know Snow Bowl. Special funds have been allocated for these projects and both the artificial ice rink and ski lift are expected to be in use by the winter of 1955 .Thus, two more goals of the Development Program approach a reality.

Total Long Range Development Program . . . . . $3,000,000.

WHO WILL GIVE THE MONEY?

Since individuals give only if they are interested in the institution, and are convinced of the need, it is logical that most of the funds in the first phase will come from the people with a first-hand knowledge of the College—the alumni. However, it is anticipated that the area committee will help present the program to the parents of students and others, thus increasing our circle of friends for the years ahead.

WHAT CAN I DO?

Join your local area committee, and contribute in proportion to your financial ability. There are nearly 8,000 living Alumni. If each makes a thoughtful gift, and does his share of the work, the results will be an inspiration to all.

3 Million

. . . Must be raised if Middlebury College is to maintain its high academic standing.

WHAT IS THE DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM?

It is a plan, authorized by the Trustees, and supported by alumni, alumnae, faculty, and friends of the College, to coordinate the orderly financial development of Middlebury College. Stanley V. Wright, '18, Director of Alumni Relations, will give continuity to the planning and day-to-day efforts.

WHO IS RUNNING THE PROGRAM?

A Trustee Committee has been formed to represent alumni, faculty, students, administration, parents, Trustees, and friends. Edwin S. S. Sunderland, '11, as chairman, is calling upon this group for counsel and leadership. Other members of this committee are Horace S. Ford, Gertrude C. Milliken, '01, William H. Edmunds, '17, and Carleton H. Simmons, '28.

HOW MUCH MONEY IS NEEDED?

A committee of trustees, after a long study, estimated the urgent capital needs of Middlebury College at $3,000,000. This fund is designed to preserve Middlebury's academic strength for the next decade. All needs are urgent now. Lack of them ten years from now would present a crisis.

HOW WILL THE CAMPAIGN BE CONDUCTED?

By the Alumni, right out in their home towns. Committees will be set up to make personal calls on the Alumni and friends. They will provide publicity, printed materials, and campaign know-how; which combined with your knowledge of local conditions, should produce real results.

WHAT ABOUT THE ALUMNI FUND?

The Annual Giving Alumni Fund is a necessity to the life of Middlebury College. Plans call for an intensified Alumni Fund program during the next ten years. During the year of 1954–55 the goal of the Alumni Fund will be $50,000. Half of this amount will be allocated to the Scholarship Program and the balance to the other goals of the Development Program.

The Library At Middlebury College

By Mrs. Margaret W. Fayer, Librarian

To many Alumni the Egbert Starr Library has come to mean the place where they register when they come back to Middlebury for Homecoming and Alumni Week End. This June that tradition was broken when, for the first time, more adequate facilities were found for this purpose in the Student Union Building. But I wonder if the majority of them, especially those who majored in the humanities, if they were to think back on it, would not find that, during their four years on campus, they spent more time in the Library than in any other single place on campus, outside of their dormitory and classroom building. As freshmen, they were introduced to the Library early in their college career, and throughout the next four years were obliged to avail themselves ever increasingly of its facilities. And no doubt many times they heard it referred to by members of the faculty and administration as "the heart of the College."

This time-honored characterization of the library is considerably more accurate today than it was some years ago when this statement was first made. For the heart is by definition a vital, living, life-giving organ, not a static structure. Libraries, once regarded as storehouses, and their attendants as guardians of books, have now become campus workshops, humanistic laboratories, with their librarians assuming more and more of an educative role. Closely integrated with the changing concepts of education and the educational programs of their particular college, the college library is today, more than ever, the vital center of the curriculum.

For more than a generation, undergraduate college education in the United States has been the subject of intensive investigation, controversy and change. Many studies and analyses have been published, many experimental programs launched. Each of these has posed a challenge to the college library, which it has tried, with varying degrees of success, to meet.

Librarianship in the United States has made rapid strides during this same generation, and thinking on the subject has been revolutionized. The view that the librarian's function was merely to check books in and out and be able to account for each one of them is no longer held even by the average layman making any reasonable use of a library. The circulation desk has now become one of the least technical features of the library. No particular training is needed to charge out books. Unfortunately, some readers still think of the circulation desk as the whole library and fail to realize the more important work being done all the time behind the scenes by the various departments which form an integral part of the library, and without whose services the library would cease to exist.

First among these departments is the Acquisitions Department. With the vast amount of published material—books, pamphlets, and periodicals—constantly pouring from our presses, great care must be exercised to acquire the most useful and reliable material that will best serve the specific needs of a particular library. Many tools are provided for the experienced librarian, to assist in the evaluation of this material and its prompt acquisition at the most reasonable prices. This latter is frequently difficult to do, especially in the case of rare and out-of-print material.

Next in importance is the Cataloging Department. With the growth of human knowledge, with the increasing diversity of its branches, classification of reading matter has become more difficult and complex. The main problem of the cataloger is so to catalog a book that it can readily be found by the greatest number of readers who may find it useful for their varied and sundry purposes. Thus, a book on old age might be of equal interest to the student of medicine, biology, sociology, psychology, and even economics. Poor or incomplete cataloging might fail to bring out these varied interests. A book so cataloged would occupy space on the shelves and a place in the statistics of the library's holdings, but would be of little value if prospective users were not made aware of its existence. [Continued on page 41]

Let Us Be True To One Another*

By Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby
United States Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare

I am pleased and proud to be here and to have the privilege of speaking to you.

No one associated with Middlebury College—as student, teacher, or staff member—could fail to be enriched by the experience.

And I might add that this is true for even the visitor or guest.

You have a rich heritage in Middlebury. You have it in the physical surroundings, in this beautiful setting. You have it in the fundamental principles on which the institution was founded. And you have given it full meaning over the years as a leader in education within the framework of a liberal arts college.

Middlebury is known nationally and internationally for its foreign language schools. Vice President Freeman and his associates are, in truth, making a lasting contribution to international understanding.

President Stratton's tour of duty for the Government in Saudi Arabia and his World War II experience in Washington have enhanced the cosmopolitan character of the Middlebury outlook.

No reference to Middlebury would be complete without particular homage to the Bread Loaf Writers' Conference that has been held for nearly three decades. As one who has spent most of her life in newspaper work, I should like to pay my personal respects to this Conference. American literature has been the better for the work of Robert Frost and his associates in the Conference.

In a word, I can think of no better atmosphere than Middlebury for the thoughts I am going to impose upon you today.

I had occasion recently to read again Matthew Arnold's moving poem, "Dover Beach." And I wondered in reading it—for I was thinking of this commencement—whether the last stanza did not provide the basis or framework for what I wanted to say to you. And so I would like to read it to you, if I may.

"Ah, love, let us be true
To one another! for the world, which seems
To lie before us like a land of dreams,
So various, so beautiful, so new,
Hath really neither joy, nor love, nor light,
Nor certitude, nor peace, nor help for pain;
And we are here as on a darkling plain
Swept with confused alarms of struggle and flight.
Where ignorant armies clash by night."

As you know, one of the great joys of reading, or of listening to music, or of visiting an art gallery is to discover that what you have read, or heard, or seen serves as a point of departure for your own thoughts or emotions. A phrase, a line, a stanza becomes interpreted in your own thought forms so that it becomes a part of your life, a part of your vision, a part of you, and you have been enriched and increased.

And this is true for me as I read the last stanza of "Dover Beach."

Now what does this have to do with us—with you—on this occasion?

I seem to hear an echo through the years of other commencement addresses. We gathered from them, it seemed, that we were about to "enter life," that somehow from this point on there stretched a world "which seems to lie before us like a land of dreams, so various, so beautiful, so new."

I did not find it so, and I doubt if anyone else ever has.

I am sure today that the fact that you have been young—and still are—does not mean you have not already been a part of the world around you. And the world around you has been far more than your education and your social life. It has included everything—all that is good and all that is bad, all that is joyful and all that is sorrowful.

This world around you, of which you have been a part all of your years, has been filled with stress and strain—stress and strain for the individual family, for our country at home, for our country abroad, and for the world at large.

Here in our country, when you were born, there was depression and there was human misery. A few years later, your country and the rest of the free world found itself locked in a titanic struggle for survival with the remorseless forces of tyranny. It took long, bitter years, while you were children, for free men to throw back and crush the attack upon their freedom. And then began the long, painful process of trying to stabilize the peace, to spread freedom more widely, to fortify ourselves—and others—against the [Continued on page 42] trails, etc. Our further plans include the development of the winter sports side of our activities with artificial ice by next January, and a ski lift at Bread Loaf to supplement the rope tows. Funds for this have not come from any drives, have not even been requested, but are from volunteer gifts or allocated funds.

"We were aware from the start that we needed more fireproof and adequate accommodations for women students," Dr. Stratton concluded. "We have built the two Battells, housing 140 women. At 7 P.M. tonight we will dig the first shovel of earth to add a wing to these to house 100 women."

Following are excerpts from a statement of Faculty Representative Arthur K. D. Healy.

Middlebury has many needs, indeed, and we of the Faculty earnestly join with the Administration in seeking your support, financially and intellectually.

The past year has seen marked advances in the academic situation of the College: the introduction, at a future date, of a language proficiency requirement for entrance and graduation; the decision, made as a result of a study under a Ford grant, to admit superior students with advanced standing from a selected group of secondary schools; the improvement of Freshman scholarship—all these are of welcome significance.

*In the last issue of the "NEWS LETTER," after mentioning future plans for the expansion of the physical plant, President Stratton stated: "There are other needs, including more endowment or more annual income to provide a larger faculty with better salaries." We are wholeheartedly in agreement with the two points made here by the President.*

First, as recently emphasized in a survey submitted to the President and Trustees of the College for study, we definitely feel that a consideration of the proper ratio of the number of faculty to that of students is a primary one, for it is only by improving this ratio that the College will be able to maintain the type of quality education which you yourselves have known. . . .

Second, it is a sobering fact, and a sad comment on the present circumstances, that a great number of the faculty have had to rely on sources of income other than their salaries to maintain a simple standard of living, often to the detriment of their professional excellence.

Thus, because we too want to maintain the high standards of our College and the morale of its faculty, we join with Dr. Stratton in his concern, and urge you to do your utmost in helping us achieve these goals."

The Reference Department offers a more direct service to the reader. The reference librarian is especially trained to find out exactly what the reader wants, to assist him in locating it, to suggest related material, or substitute reading if the desired source is not available.

The primary objective of the Library at Middlebury College, as elsewhere, is to make its services contribute as effectively as possible to the instructional program of the College. In our service to the faculty, this is done by attempting to be alert to new books and periodicals which appear in their various fields, calling them to their attention, and purchasing them, if funds permit. Students are encouraged to make efficient use of the Library through a series of orientation lectures, accompanied by a film given during the freshman year. Both the cataloging and reference departments are constantly endeavoring to make the facilities of the Library more readily available to students and faculty alike; the former, by making the catalog as complete and accurate as possible, so that the desired information can be found easily by the uninitiated; the latter, by being ready at all times to render assistance in locating the more elusive item.

Typing, mending, marking, pasting, filing, sending overdue and fines notices, arranging exhibits, making reports and schedules, putting books on reserve for class use, etc. are some of the many other behind-the-scenes jobs which must be done to keep the Library functioning smoothly.

Those among the alumni who have not been back to visit the College recently would find the Library considerably changed during even the past decade. Though still housed in the same building, and with no marked change in the physical plant, developments on the inside have been many and varied.

The present staff of the Library numbers 13, including the Head Librarian, Assistant Librarian, who is also in charge of reference, two catalogers, an order librarian, curator of the Abernethy Library, and clerical assistants. A few student assistants are also used to shelve books and to work at the desk at certain hours.

With an increase in our student body of about 50 per cent during the past ten years, and an almost inestimable increase in the demands made upon the Library, due to present teaching methods which require wide reading and investigation, the challenge to serve the faculty and students adequately is daily faced anew. Though we lack much that is now considered standard equipment in modern libraries—such as audio-visual materials, listening rooms, carrels, etc.—we are not infrequently grateful that our collection has been built up carefully and consistently over the past 154 years and, as a consequence, contains many valuable items which it would be impossible to duplicate today.

The Middlebury College Library is unique among other small liberal arts college libraries in its collection of foreign books. Serving, as it does, the Summer Schools of French, German, Italian, Russian and Spanish—all at the graduate level—it has acquired collections in these languages which would do credit to a much larger college or even a university. We are frequently called on to loan books in these fields to libraries much larger than our own.

The Middleburiana collection, housed in the Vermont Room, is one of which we are justly proud. It contains books written by our alumni and faculty, as well as records of the College's history, and memorabilia. In 1950, when the College celebrated its sesquicentennial anniversary, the Librarian felt that his collection should be represented in the exhibits planned for this occasion. A list of "150 Books by 150 Middlebury College Men and Women" was the result. The wealth of material written by Middlebury graduates and faculty made selection difficult within the arbitrary confines of 150. The variety and scope of these works shed an interesting light on the history of the College, revealing, as they do, the educational trends, the shift of interest and emphasis, and the broadening of the curriculum during this period. From the almost exclusive concern with religion and the good life among the graduates of the early 1800's, the field widens over the years to embrace arts and science, modern languages and their teaching, law, medicine, and engineering. Though the collection had been growing steadily over the years, most of it remained uncataloged until five years ago. The Library is happy to have this year completed the catalog-

MAJOR IMPROVEMENTS IN SKIING

bury produces one of the top ski teams in the East. Annually during the College's Winter Carnival, the Snow Bowl area is the scene of the best in collegiate ski competition.

1954 COMMENCEMENT

. . . . . So it should be with you; taking what is given, what destiny had handed out, and by vision, initiative, and perseverance fashioning a personality of strength and of worth, of service and of charm. Thus, you make the world more beautiful for having lived; you lessen the tensions and the strains, the frictions and the miseries. You are laboring with God in good will and in understanding; joining with others for a better tomorrow."

CONSTRUCTION STARTS ON NEW WOMEN'S DORMITORY

Constructed of gray limestone with marble coins and window ledges, the building will harmonize with existing structures. Completion date has been set as January 1, 1955 and it is expected that the new facilities will be ready for occupancy for the second semester of the next academic year.

Stone for the new dormitory will come from a nearby quarry in the Town of Weybridge.

The new building is one phase in Middlebury's new and long range Development Program. (Complete outline of Development Program on Pages 14 and 15.)

Contractor for the new dormitory is R. S. Noonan, Inc., of York, Pennsylvania.

DEVELOPMENT, ALUMNI FUND, REPORTS, HIGHLIGHT ALUMNI COUNCIL MEETING

"Now what have you and I been doing in the last ten years about these various needs? During the post war period we erected one of the finest ski jumps of any New England college, we made ski ambitions may lead you. Government is here to be worked at —to make good and to keep good. It will be your government— it will be, in effect, your life and your children's lives which you are endeavoring to sustain and improve.

Now I have pointed out earlier that you have lived thus far in troubled times. And I have said that you were always a factor in the decisions made in dealing with some of the most momentous problems in the history of our country. These have been the problems of domestic welfare, beginning with the country's worst depression, and then the problems of war, and finally the complex problems of today's peace, which is far from true tranquility.

Can it be, then, as Arnold said, that ". . . the world, which seems

To lie before us like a land of dreams . . .
Hath really neither joy, nor love, nor light,
Nor certitude, nor peace, nor help for pain. . ."

When Arnold wrote these lines, nearly 90 years ago, he was expressing a deep sense of pessimism and despair about the future of industrial and scientific civilization. But even in expressing this brooding despair, when everything in his world seemed dark, he seemed to turn intuitively to the exhortation, ". . . let us be true to one another. . ."

He seemed to be saying that, in a world without any other kind of security, there is this we can do: We can be true to one another. And I have always felt that, weighed against the depths he described, the quality of integrity is no mean balance for the scales.

I do not believe his denial of joy, and love, and light, and certitude, and peace, and help for pain.

I do believe that these things can be in the world for you. They are not waiting for each of you to pluck at random like ripe fruit from a tree. They are parts of life, of your life, which you must develop for yourself, in concert with others, and bring to the world.

History is dotted here and there with events that beckon man's spirit and enlarge it. Equal events—yesterday and today—are lost in the mist. But now and then a conspiracy of circumstances creates an event which gives us renewed light.

I never heard of Dien Bien Phu until it became the site of a besieged French garrison . . . until this pinpoint in geography, a speck of land, was made legend by the indelible mark of the human spirit. Now, I shall never forget the words, "Dien, Bien, Phu"—and their special meaning to me.

There were 10,000 men—and one woman—in the garrison. Only 3,000 were physically able to fight in the closing days. They were besieged by 40,000 men.

The gallant commander, General de Castries, and his men were under siege for 57 days. The lone woman, nurse Lieutenant de Galard Terraube, shared the siege for 40 days.

The tense anxiety is now over . . . the hovering suspense is gone. The garrison at Dien Bien Phu fell!

In other circumstances and in other times, other garrisons have fallen. One that comes readily to mind is the Alamo. There, a band of patriots, 187 in all, withstood the onslaught of more than 3,000 troops for 12 days.

Is there something in common between Dien Bien Phu and the Alamo? Yes, I think there is.

But I am not referring to the flat, historical perspective of the two events. I have in mind the full, round essence of their meaning. This meaning is strangely illustrated by the memorial markers at the Alamo. There is not just one flat plaque which says, in effect: "Here are the names of the defenders of the Alamo." There are a number of markers, placed at different points throughout the structure, each naming several of the defenders.

The placing of these markers gives me, in a sense, the full, round essence of the meaning of the Alamo. Each marker seems to say: "Here was one defender, or several, working together with all others at all points." And this meaning is not one of precise delineation. It is akin to one's perspective from a lofty height looking over a vast distance. Definition is lost in such distance. But what we have is the imaginative concept.

And, as in the case of the Alamo when it was historically fresh, Dien Bien Phu can mean many things to many people. For a while, like the Alamo, the facts, the statistics, will be used and have some importance. Gradually, to most people, they will fade away.

What is there left? The imaginative concept: In truth, the greatest lesson of all. The defenders of Dien Bien Phu were true to one another—to the integrity that is implicit in the continuity of humankind. They accommodated themselves to the storm.

I believe that the essence of our lives—yes, the essence of our democratic form of government—lies in the phrase, ". . . let us be true to one another. . ."

Let us be true to our classmates.
Let us be true to our families.
Let us be true to our neighbors.
Let us be true to all our fellow citizens.
And let us be true to humanity everywhere.

Many Alumni, Friends Attend 1954 Reunion Dinners

One of the most successful years of Alumni Reunion dinners took place during the past academic year as more than a thousand Alumni, Alumnae, parents and friends attended dinners in Houston (Texas), New York City, Philadelphia, Washington, Hartford, Springfield, (Mass.), Boston, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse, Utica, Albany, Montpelier, Claremont (N.H.), and Concord (N.H.).

Two hundred persons attended the New York-New Jersey District reunion. This was the largest group to attend this reunion since before World War II, Henry T. Emmons, '35 reports. Linwood L. Meacham, '50, says that 157 attended the Boston dinner and all enjoyed the College motion pictures and the speakers. The other area to have a record number in attendance was the Connecticut dinner held in Hartford.

Listed among the speakers at the various dinners were: Dr. Samuel S. Stratton, President of the College; Stanley V. Wright, Director of Alumni Relations; Rev. Charles P. Scott, Chaplain of the College; Mrs. Alice N. Perine, Alumnae Secretary; Mrs. Elizabeth B. Kelly, Dean of Women, Dr. Stephen A. Freeman, Vice President of the College, and John G. Bowker, Dean of the Faculty. Jack Steele, '36, one of the Nation's leading newspapermen and Journalism Award winner, gave a very interesting talk at the New York dinner.

ing of this collection, thus making it of real value to students of the early history of the College and the town.

The Abernethy Library, under the able direction of its curator, Dr. Viola C. White, continues to hold the distinction of being one of the best collections of American literature in the country. The room, in the east wing of the building, which houses the collection serves the double function of treasure room and quiet haven for reading and study. The gift of the Wales Hawkins collection of Robert Frost material to the Abernethy Library is the highlight of its recent acquisitions.

The book stock at Middlebury now numbers about 125,000 volumes, in addition to almost 85,000 government documents, the latter received free of charge in our status of a partial depository. Branch libraries are housed in Warner Science Hall (serving the departments of Biology, Physics, Geology, Geography and Drafting), Chemistry Building, Music Studio, Carr Hall, and the Chateau—all of them under the supervision of the Main library. Due to shrinking space, books are also stored in Forest, Hepburn, and Gifford Halls. In order to further save space within the building, a vigorous program of weeding (disposal of out-of-date and obsolete material) has been carried on for the past several years. In addition, much bulky material, such as files of periodicals and the N. Y. Times are now received on microfilm.

Beautiful as the Egbert Starr Library is with its imposing marble structure, its attractive main reading room, and its dignified Abernethy wing, it can no longer be considered functional and efficient from the standpoint of present needs, services and economy. As Dr. Stratton pointed out in the April issue of the News Letter: "Library facilities adequate in 1928 are woefully inadequate for the Middlebury College of 1954."

One field of service which the Librarian would like to explore further is increased service to the alumni, many of whom live in small towns, remote from the facilities of a large or scholarly library. Inter-library loans are, of course, always available to these people, but many small-town or rural libraries do not take advantage of this service, due to inadequate staff, etc. The Librarian would like very much to hear from alumni who have found themselves hampered by inadequate library service and who would be interested in borrowing books direct from the College Library.

encroachment of tyranny.

Everything that has happened in our national life during these years has left its imprint on you, in one way or another. Decisions that have been made, courses of action which have been settled upon, have been made with you in mind. These decisions, these courses of action, have been influenced by the fact that your are—that you are members of your family and of the American community.

The fact that these decisions were not made by you—but for you—does not lessen their impact upon you, your implication in them—yes, even your responsibility with regard to them.

Ernest Hemingway gave popular currency to a universal truth—the truth of man's essential brotherhood—when he used a phrase from a poem as the title of one of his novels. The phrase was "For Whom the Bell Tolls," and the poem, of course, was by John Donne.

I know speakers have referred to Donne's poem over and over again for many years, but the reason some things are said over and over again and become known as axioms is because of their fundamental truth. If this were not so, they would not reach the eminence of the axiom—and challenge our thoughts.

And I think that Donne's poem does challenge our thoughts and state a fundamental truth with solemn force—the fact that you have already been a part of the world around you. Speaking of the passing bell rung for the dead, Donne said:

"No man is an island, entire of itself;
Every man is a piece of the continent, a part of the main.
If a clod be washed away by the sea, Europe is the less,
As well as if a promontory were,
As well as if a manor of thy friends or of thine own were.
Any man's death diminishes me,
Because I am involved in mankind;
And therefore never send to know for whom the bell tolls:
It tolls for thee."

Now that I have tried to implicate you so deeply in the affairs of mankind, it is only fair to you that I go a step further.

What are these things, specifically, of which you have been so much a part without your voice having been heard? I am referring, broadly, to public affairs. I am referring to the actions, or inactions, of the adults in the public affairs of your communities, of your States, and of the Nation.

The action, or inaction, of adults in voting implicated you then—and your future. The action, or inaction, of adults in a property assessment matter, or a zoning problem, or a health program—these implicated you then—and your future. The actions of your State Government and of the National Government—actions taken by representatives placed there by your family and your neighbors—these implicated you then—and your future.

We frequently hear government referred to as some strange disembodied entity for which one has no responsibility. Government and governmental actions are too often criticized in that vein.

There may be an explanation—but not an excuse—for this situation. The loss of a sense of personal responsibility for government today stems, perhaps in part, from the increasing complexity of government.

The New England town meeting was one of the finest examples of personal participation—and responsibility—in government. In the transition from that period to today's complicated government, the individual citizen has lost some of the sense of personal responsibility in public affairs.

But I emphasize that, under our system, government—for all its complexity—is inescapably still you, and I, and everybody else in this broad land.

Put it another way: In this country, we cannot buy good government. We cannot hire people to give us satisfactory government. Each of us must work at government to make it good.

This simple truth, which, at times, we are prone to forget, has been demonstrated again and again. Inattention by the citizens of a democracy to government produces bad results. Diligent attention is the best insurance for good government.

But what, you may ask, can each person do, each person who is following a diverse path or career, in life?

It does not matter where you are or where your desires or
